election, but it was agreed that the Indianapolis ticket would at least serve to record the honest money vote in the Democratic ranks, and this vote added to the Republican vote, would show how overwhelming was the sentiment of the country against free silver and the Chicago platform. Henry

News said: "If there was any doubt as to McKinley's election before the third ticket was nominated yesterday, the success of that movement certainly now entirely removes it."

The Bank of France will not sell American eagles for export at present. It is stated by the head of a French bank that the bank is not prepared to do so, not doing so is that the exchange situation does not demand that France should send gold to the United States.

France, if or continues, it is shown that the balance is against London. Therefore, the Bank of France is not in a position to maintain the franc in the way of gold leaving France, for London is clearly the proper centre from which to draw gold. All the European exchanges, or practically all, are against France, and the Bank of France is not in the exchange market in Paris shows that France is really indebted to the United States to an extent requiring gold export to the United States. The gold exchange advance in sterling at Paris—the Bank of France will make the best terms possible with exporters, but will supply them with the gold premium. The gold premium has been paid to the Bank of France on gold intended for the United States. The bank has been known occasionally to charge a gold premium on gold export, and, of course, the result was to drop exchange correspondingly.

The important country. The gold deposit deposited £1,200,000 in gold in the Sub-Treasury in exchange for legal tenders. George Coppell, of Maitland, Coppell & Co., who has returned from Europe, said yesterday that it was necessary to find in Europe a market for the gold. The necessity to find a market for the gold is the matter of investment. This has grown out of the many cases of bankruptcy here of railroads and the feeling of uncertainty in regard to our money standard. At Amsterdam, where the gold has a large market, the Dutch money had been placed in debentures based upon farm mortgages in Austria and Hungary, at the low rate of 3½ per cent, simply because they were looked upon as the best investment to have had that time.

coming to the United States. Instead of money coming here, however, there is still a strong disposition to sell our securities, especially mortgages, and delinquencies based on real estate. I used my best efforts to induce my friends not to sell. It is not certain, however, that well-informed people there will invest money here if the gold standard is maintained."

CENSURE WITHDRAWN BY THE JUSTICE.

THE NEELY CONTEMPT CASE IS TO GO BEFORE

A REFeree.

When the contempt proceedings against F. Tennyson Neely, publisher, in the suit of Colonel Richard Henry Savage, novelist, to recover $12,000 in royalties was called yesterday before Justice Pryor, in Special Term, Part 1, of the Supreme Court. Justice Pryor acknowledged to William H. Stayton, counsel for Neely, that he was in error in holding that he believed that Stayton had

"I am satisfied," said Justice Pryor, "that I did you an injustice when I censured you, and I wish to retract my statement, as readily as I was able to make it."

Mr. Stanton thanked Justice Pryor and announced that he would make the reparation as public as was the censure. I find that there was nothing in your conduct deserving censure."

Neely was told that he had agreed to the appointment of a referee to determine whether his client was in contempt of court in failing to produce books and papers as directed by the Court.

Colonel Savage's counsel had charged that Mr. Neely was an unwilling witness, had caused trouble by evading questions, and had failed to produce certain books. The contempt was fully argued Thursday, and Justice Pryor gave Neely his choice between being judged guilty of contempt of court and of paying the costs of a reference to determine whether he was guilty or not.

NO NEW EVIDENCE IN THE MEYERS CASE

MAGISTRATE FLAMMER PUTS THE CASE OVER
UNTIL THURSDAY

Samuel Meyers, who is charged with strangling Anna Meyers, the woman he says his wife was, arranged in Yorkville Court at about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Captain Martens, who brought the prisoner in, stated that he had been unable to get any additional evidence. Magistrate Flammer said that he disliked to discharge the prisoner until the Coroner's office had taken definite action in the matter. He then ordered a writ affida drawn up on request of Emanuel Fiedin, in order that the prisoner might be transferred to the district prison where he would be accessible to his counsel.

Volleman later told the story, as already published, of finding the body of Anne Meyers in her apartments at No. 202 East Twenty-ninth, on Wednesday morning. He said he noticed that there was blood on other parts of the floor, and that there was a woman who called the attention of Dr. Williams, of Bellevue, on his arrival soon afterward, to the fact, but the latter said it situated in this way:

"The contradictory stories Meyers is alleged to have told the police, Captain Martens said he was known that the defendant was at a party at the home of a woman who knew him well said he was at Stanton and Goerck's at about 8:30 p. m. From Stanton and Goerck's he went to the home of a woman who would have committed the crime, as the prosecution has alleged, between 8:30 and 9:30 p. m. This is the question in the department of court."

the date for taking testimony on Thursday next.

A CHILD'S SENSATIONAL FALL.

HE LANDS ON AN ITALIAN'S HEAD, AND, RE-BOUNDING TO THE PAVEMENT, IS KILLED.

Six-year-old Johnnie Janone, whose parents live on the top floor of the five-story Italian tenement-house No. 5 Mulberry-st., was left alone yesterday morning, while his mother went out to buy provisions. He awoke while she was absent, and scrambled out on the fire escape with a small kite, which he tried to fly. Somehow he lost his balance and fell over the railing into the street below.

On the ground floor of the tenement is a notions store kept by Marcus Brier. He employs a young boy, who is charged with the duty of catching the young

When the man named Augustus had been displayed in front of the window, Adairlight was on guard as usual when the Janette child fell from the fire-escape, and little Johnny landed on his head. He was so close as to knock him senseless. Then the child's body rebounded to the sidewalk. The little fellow was instantly killed, his skull being badly crushed.

Millberry-st. was crowded when the accident occurred. A crowd of people, through a woman pushed her way crying hysterically, it was the child's mother, who, on her return from the neighboring store, had seen the boy fall. She threw herself across the mangled body and uttered loud lamentations.

The little "c" was carried to the rooms on the top floor. Ardinechi had already been carried to the hospital by an ambulance, a surgeon, who had been summoned to make sure the child had been properly killed, restored the man to consciousness.

A report was circulated through Mullery-street that the child had been killed, and that the man had escaped. The police investigation of the rumor, however, proved that it was unwarranted.

AFFAIRS OF HILTON, HUGHES & CO.

Mr. Gilliam, the manager of the firm of Hilton, Hughes & Co., which recently assigned, is at work with a large force of clerks completing the listing of the stock. The completion of the task may require a week or more.

The question of when the employees are to be paid is not yet definitely settled. There was talk of taking hold of the payrolls the first of next week. This idea has been abandoned, however, owing to the fact that the money would have to be withdrawn from the bank to-day, and lie idle till Tuesday, Monday being Labor Day. It is thought possible that when the payment of salaries begins on Tuesday, the first of next week, the first of the departments will be paid off a day. There are fifty-four departments, but it is hoped, if present plans are carried out, that all the employees will be paid off by the end of next week.
